In 2004 Zippo invited students at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh to come up with art concepts worthy of a Zippo lighter. The overwhelming success of the program led to a 2005 challenge to students from the Art Institute of Philadelphia.

This year's winner, Rob Vance, explained the inspiration behind his winning entry, Sound System.

Rob Vance

"I always listen to music when I work. It helps me relax and often inspires me to find a more creative solution to a design problem. I got the idea for this particular piece when I was listening to a song called Sound System by Operation Ivy. There's a lyric in the song that goes 'Contained in my music somehow more than just sound, this inspiration coming and twisting things around.' That particular line really stood out at the time, and after rolling the idea of it around in my head for a while, the design is what I envisioned to represent that idea."

Vance's award-winning concept is brought to life by Zippo's surface imprint process on street chrome finish.

1941 REPLICA™

Several distinctive characteristics distinguish the 1941 Replica from today's familiar Zippo windproof lighter. The 1941 case has flat planes with sharper, less rounded edges where the front and back surfaces meet the sides. The lid and the bottom are joined with a four-barrel hinge, just as they were on the original 1941 design. The current Zippo lighter has a five-barrel hinge.

The inside unit closely replicates the design of the original 1941 model inside unit. Like the outside, the sides of the inside unit are flatter, with squared edges where they meet the front and back surfaces. The inside unit has fewer holes in the chimney, and is also fitted with a hollow rivet that holds the striking wheel in place.

For years, people have been coming to Zippo with design ideas that they would like to see on a Zippo windproof lighter. This year, we gave them a chance to make this dream a reality with the Design A Lighter contest. The goal of the contest was to discover fresh designs that might someday be used on a Zippo lighter.

Zipper
by Joseph DeBono of Malta

When asked what inspired his winning design, DeBono explained, "Like George G. Blaisdell, I toyed with the word zip and several ideas came out of that...I came up with like five ideas on how to do 'Zipper'. I finally decided on doing the zipper on the lid and I did my best to make it look attractive. I wondered if it would be better with Zippo written somewhere, so I just embossed it on the clip."

Zippo and World War II

No other event in history increased the popularity of Zippo lighters more than World War II. From 1943 through the end of WWII, Zippo's entire production was allocated to the armed forces. The company archives are filled with letters detailing the services a Zippo lighter was called to perform: heating rations in a helmet, lighting campfires, sparking fuses for explosives, hammering nails and even signaling to fellow soldiers with the famous Zippo click.

On several occasions, a Zippo lighter in a shirt or pants pocket even saved a life by deflecting bullets.

No wonder legendary war correspondent Ernie Pyle wrote, "Getting hold of a Zippo (lighter) is like getting hold of a hunk of gold...There is truly nothing the average soldier would rather have."

Because of a shortage of raw materials, WWII-era

Zippo lighters were made of steel rather than brass, and dipped in a black protective coating to prevent rusting. Today collectors refer to these rare models as black crackle lighters.

Walter Nadler

In the early 1990s, a Zippo employee found a genuine black crackle World War II-era lighter bearing a simple hand-carved inscription, "Walter Nadler" on the front and "June 6, 1944, 0630 France" on the back. As part of our D-Day 50th Anniversary initiative, Zippo launched an international media search throughout World War II Zippo lighters with the black crackle finish, distributed only to the PXs for the men and women in the service, mistakenly were stamped with patent number 203695. The correct number should have been 2032695.

the U.S. and France, seeking to find any details on Walter Nadler. Information from several sources led to Walter D. Nadler of Rahway, NJ, who landed on Normandy June 6, 1944, with the fighting 4th Division of the U.S. Army.

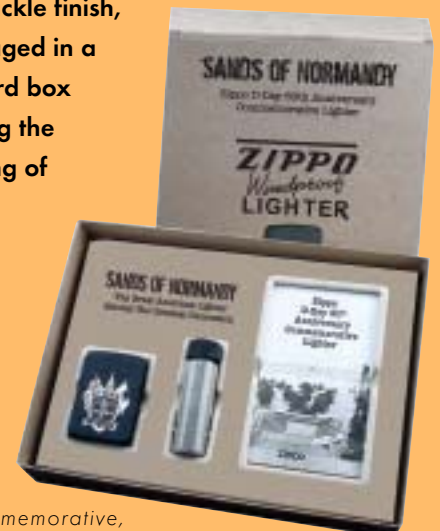

Unfortunately, Nadler had passed away in 1990. The now famous Walter Nadler lighter is on display at the Zippo/Case Visitors Center in Bradford, PA.

War Commemoratives

Every U.S. Navy ship has been commemorated on a Zippo lighter. Starting in 1990, Zippo created gift sets commemorating significant military events that shaped the history of the United States. Collector sets honoring the U.S. military include the Civil War Series, a two-lighter Korean War commemorative, Vietnam limited editions, Zippo: A Remembrance, Volumes 1 and 2, the D-Day 50th commemorative, and the most recent D-Day 60th Anniversary Sands of Normandy set.

The 60th Anniversary D-Day commemorative set included a container of sand drawn from Normandy's Omaha Beach, an informational booklet providing details about Zippo and WWII, and a replica of the 1941 Zippo lighter with the famous black crackle finish, all packaged in a fiberboard box mimicking the packaging of K-rations soldiers carried into war.

PIPE LIGHTERS

The Zippo pipe lighter is made to the same high quality standards as a Zippo windproof pocket lighter, but designed for the special needs of pipe smokers. The ingenious design encases the flame in metal, allowing it to be drawn directly into the pipe without bending over the side. The result: perfectly lit tobacco, with no damage to the pipe.

The insert of a Zippo pipe lighter is exactly the same size as the standard pocket lighter insert, allowing pipe smokers who have a treasured Zippo lighter the option of replacing the insert to continue carrying the favorite case.
